Consoles To be Announced at E3?

UPDATE: We are happy to announce that the successor to the Wii (what we are referring to as the Wii 2) has been confirmed on April 25th, 2011 to be announced at E3 by Nintendo communications, the actual release of the new console will be done sometime in 2012

At this point there is no confirmation of any console to be announced at E3. We can only take what the media has been saying about the upcoming consoles as a grain of salt and make an educated guess.

If there is any console to be announced at E3, that will be the so rumored Nintendo Wii 2. As we have mentioned in previous articles, Nintendo is badly in need to upgrade its existing console to make sure to remain competitive.

Other gaming platforms such as the Sony NGP, the Microsoft Xbox 3 or 720 or the PS4 are also rumored to pop up at E3. However, these are mere wish thinking and not as likely to show up as the Nintendo Wii 2. Either way, it's nice to think that we are having all these new gen consoles coming in the not so far future. We also think graphics are ready to leap again. Why ? Well by end 2012/2013 we could Unreal Engine 4 and CryEngine 4 both on our hands. What happened last time Unreal Engine was released? we ended up getting a new console generation. So as new gen consoles are upgrading, we also think graphic engines will improve to take advantage of the new hardware.
